Modern Group Analysis

The Power of the Group: Four Stories

Group treatment is a cornerstone in the practice of modern psychoanalysis. When combined with individual treatment, it makes for a powerful and effective therapeutic intervention. This series of four stories is designed to invite discussion of the role group played in the development of four senior faculty members.

In this, the fourth of four presentations — “Perspectives on my life in groups, past and present. Stories.” — Dr. Dolores Welber plans an interactive, improvisational process involving questions and answers.

The event concludes with refreshments and a social gathering.
