Modern Psychoanalytic Approaches to Understanding and Treating Addictive Disorders

Addictions, disorders with roots in the narcissistic period of development, are explored as maladaptive defenses for managing unacceptable thoughts and feelings. Treatment approaches combining psychoanalytic and harm-reduction models will be presented.

Mondays, May 16 - June 27, 2016
7:00–8:30 PM • 6 Classes $300
CMPS, 16 West 10th Street, New York, NY 10011
212-260-7050 • cmps@cmps.edu • www.cmps.edu

9 CE Credits for Social Workers, Psychologists, and CASACs

Raúl Plasencia, LCSW, is a psychoanalyst with over 20 years’ experience in the field of addiction and chemical dependency, and is in independent practice in Hoboken, NJ, and New York City.

Juliane Maxwald-Schrey, MA, CASAC, is a licensed psychoanalyst who has worked extensively in the field of substance abuse counseling and is in independent practice in New York City.